trash talk. (but make it sustainable.)

march + april #givesum

salons create beauty all day long.
but let's be real – they also create waste.

foils. colour tubes. hair clippings. single-use items. ppe.
it adds up fast.

this march + april, in honour of global recycling day (march 18, 2026), we're spotlighting the recycling program changing the game for salons across canada:

green circle salons

founded in toronto in 2009, they empower salons to recycle up to 95% of their beauty waste – keeping it out of landfills and giving it new life.

we're talking:

- hair clippings
- excess colour
- used foils + metals
- gloves, masks + ppe
- single-use nail + spa items
- paper + plastics

we proudly work with brands that support sustainable salon practices, including:
redken, goldwell, kms, evo, and more!

because sustainability isn't a trend – it's the future of beauty.

why it matters (for you + your clients)

- good for the planet
- builds client trust + loyalty
- attracts eco-conscious guests
- feels really good to do the right thing

clients notice when you care.

how to get involved

- become a green circle salons member
- promote your recycling efforts in-salon + online
- educate clients on how they can recycle at home
- set up municipal recycling reminders + blue cart alerts together, we can stop throwing money (and materials) in the trash.

recycling facts worth knowing:

- the beauty industry generates millions of pounds of waste every year – much of it recyclable.
- hair clippings can be repurposed to clean up oil spills and support environmental innovation.
- metals like foils can be infinitely recycled without losing quality.
- small daily changes in salons can divert thousands of pounds of waste per year.
- wild, right?
